

Robustness, reliability, and evolution

How are organisms designed with regard to reliability and what are the consequences? This problem relates to aging, cancer, and many aspects of cellular biology currently discussed under the subject of Systems Biology. With regard to the social sciences, how do businesses and institutions evolve to deal with perturbations? What are the mechanisms of robustness and reliability, and the consequences for change in institutional structure over time?